

beep™ Card Expiry Date Extension Program

Version 1.5 – Released 21 November 2019

The following terms and conditions ("Terms & Conditions") govern the consumer's participation in the card expiry extension program of AF Payments Inc ("AFPI").

1. Eligibility:

This offer applies to beep™ cards that have a load balance of at least ten pesos (P10) and would expire anytime between December 2019 and December 2020. Concessionary Cards are also eligible (even if the balance on their concessionary card is less than P10).

2. Program Mechanics:

- 2.1. This offer is valid for the period from December 2019 until December 2020. All card expiry date extension transactions must be made during this period to avail of the offer.
- 2.2. Cards can be extended sixty (60) calendar days prior and sixty (60) calendar days after the expiry date printed on the card or encoded on the contactless chip embedded in the card (for example, cards that are valid until the end of December 2019 can be extended from 01 November 2019 to 02 March 2020).

The expiry date of expiring beep™ cards that are tapped on the expiry date extension device will be extended by one (1) year. The new expiry date will be based on the same month as the original expiry date with one year added (for example, the new expiry date for a card valid until end December 2019 will be the end of December 2020).

- 2.3. There will be a fee of ten pesos (P10) for the card extension service. This fee will be deducted from the card balance during the card expiry date extension transaction. Cards that are removed from the expiry date extension device before the fee can be deducted may be blacklisted and blocked by AFPI.
- 2.4. The customer will have five (5) seconds to decide whether to allow the card expiry date extension transactions and fee deduction to go ahead, starting from the moment the card is placed on the reader of the expiry date extension device. If the card is not removed during this time, the cardholder agrees to the transaction and the associated fee. Once the transaction is completed, it cannot be reversed or refunded.
- 2.5. Non-concessionary cards that may become defective after the expiry date extension may no longer be replaced by AFPI.
- 2.6. The card extension devices will be deployed in LRT and MRT stations. The final list of expiry date extension device locations will be available in the beep website (www.beeptopay.com).
- 2.7. The following cards will not be eligible for expiry date extensions:
 - Cards with less than P10 load balance (excluding Concessionary Cards)
 - Blacklisted Cards
 - Cards with expiry date that does not fall within the period specified for the extension (60 days prior and 60 days after the printed expiry date)
 - Timebound¹ Concessionary Cards
 - Special Purpose² Cards

2.6 Concessionary Cards that are not time-bound will be extended free of charge.

¹ Timebound concessionary cards have a time limit in which the concessionary cardholder is eligible for the concessionary card. For example, Student cards may be timebound whereas Senior Citizen cards are not.

² For example, staff cards of rail employees
